WASHINGTON NEWS.

What the President Will Do With the Modified Chinese Bill.

General Belief that He Will Sign It for Party Considerations.

An Army Abuse Considered in the Senate.

OFFICERS' TRAVELLING EXPENSES.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—In the course of discussion in the senate this afternoon on the question of printing the report of the secretary of war showing how so much money was used for traveling expenses and similar purposes in the army, Senator Plumb said this thing of ordering army officers from one place to another that they might visit their families or sweethearts had become an outrage and should be stopped. He said it was very nice for an officer to have an order to visit a place he wanted to visit, because that order provided for all his expenses. There was no necessity for so many officers here in Washington. He thought when the department exceeded the amount allowed by congress for such expenses it ought to be the subject of congressional investigation.

A CONCESSION EXPECTED.

CHICAGO, May 3.—The Journal's Washington special says: Some of the strongest opponents of the Chinese bill say they believe the president will veto the bill as it passed the house last night, but it is generally believed he will concede something and sign it rather than endanger the party's chance of the Pacific coast by further delay.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

The house went into committee on the tariff commission bill.

Springer opposed and Burrows favored the bill.

Blackburn replied to Burrows' criticism upon the democratic party at some length, and passing on to the discussion of the tariff he declared tariff for protection was pillage and robbery. The government received its revenue from two sources, duties and internal taxation, and it was proposed the latter should be abolished in order that protection might be perpetuated. He acknowledged the internal revenue system was iniquitous but maintained it beggared fewer people than the protective tariff. If it were abolished revenue would be reduced to the extent of 150,000,000 a year; and to that extent tax-payers would be relieved and if the tariff were revised and renewed, and cut down to the amount of $120,000,000 the burdens of the taxes people would be lightened to an extent variously estimated at from two to five times the amount. The passage of the pending bill was the parting forever by an American congress with its power over the system of taxation. It was illy-considered, hasty, dangerous, and unconstitutional legislation.

SENATE PROCEEDINGS.

The senate devoted a considerable time reserved for the calendar to the political disabilities bill, repealing the statute prohibiting appointments of ex-confederates in the army or navy.

Ingalls moved to amend so as to continue the statute, but confine its prohibition to officers who left the army or navy to enter the confederate service.

It was moved to commit the bill and amendment. Objection to the latter motion was made on the democratic side, but the chair ruled it in order and discussion was resumed. Saulsbury and Garland favoring the bill as reported. Lively personal interchanges as to the subject and results of the late war as seen from northern and southern standpoints followed between Ingalls, Butler, Hampton, Saulsbury and Voorhees. The bill went over till to-morrow.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

The postoffice department closed in honor of Horace Maynard, its former chief.

Henderson reported a bill to the house allowing the army to be used as a posse comitatus.

The senate military committee to-day submitted a report of investigation of the soldiers' home at Washington, sustaining charges of abuse in the management, and introduced a bill to carry out reform.

President Arthur's first general card reception took place last night. The crowd at the executive mansion was so great at ten p. m. that many had not an opportunity to reach the president, who was receiving guests in the blue room.

Debate in the senate on the repeal of the statute excluding ex confederates from the army took a decided partisan shape. Ingalls said southern senators had in the last two years extolled Jeff Davis and Lee. Voorhees replied and Saulsbury took part in the debate.

Representative Rosecrans filed a memorial of the San Francisco chamber of commerce setting forth the immediate necessity of a steam fog signal at Fort Point, to guide vessels into San Francisco, and also a resolution of the same body favoring a liberal appropriation for a United States hydrographic office.

INDIAN NEWS.

Forsythe Assisted by Mexican Troops—An Outbreak at Fort Washakie Feared.

SANTA FE, New Mexico, May 3.—The following dispatch was received here at midnight: A column of Mexican troops to-day, under the command of Colonel Garcia, met the Indians that Colonel Forsythe is in pursuit of, and killed seventy-eight of them, also taking thirty-three prisoners. The courier bringing this information to Deming arrived on foot and shoeless, having been attacked by hostiles on his way from the camp, who pursued him so hard that he had to abandon his horse and barely escaped with his life. The Indians pursued him to within sixteen miles of Deming. He reports that about one hundred Indians are between Deming and Tres Joanas.

MASSACRE FEARED.

LARAMIE, May 3.—Acting under recent orders the troops at Fort Washakie have been compelled to leave the post, and there having been no provision made for defense, the women and children at the post are now fearing a general massacre, at any moment, by Indians. Civilians are arming themselves to protect the post, but it is feared they would not be able to withstand the Indians, who are greatly excited over the killing of the Ute Captain Jack.

Denver Dots

DENVER, May 3.—Some forty Platte farmers held a meeting here yesterday and adopted a series of resolutions antagonizing the High Line ditch company. Farmers fear a scarcity of water below the head of the ditch.

Private telegrams to Governor Pitkin indicate that Sheriff Bowman and F. J. Brink were not murdered as reported. More definite news cannot be learned.

The Third cavalry passed through here to-day going from Wyoming to New Mexico to operate against the Apaches.

The county commissioners will soon send two of their members east to inspect court houses with a view to purchasing furniture.

The English company deny their High Line ditch will work an injury to the farmers, but assert that the Denver water company is creating all the racket against it.

Criminal Carelessness.

LEADVILLE, May 3.—Gottlieb Stanley, a miner in the La Plata mine, in California gulch, met with an accident yesterday morning which destroyed the sight of both eyes. He was lighting a fuse when a shot exploded a few feet away knocking him senseless. He is enduring terrible torture. From appearances criminal carelessness can be charged to somebody.

The Women of China.

CHICAGO, May 3.—Mrs. W. F. Bainbridge, of Providence, R. I., gave an address on the women of China and Japan, at the Second Baptist church last evening. She has spent considerable time in their countries in missionary work. The women, she said, exert a powerful influence in Asia, and through them the country will most readily be converted to Christianity. Still, they are very degraded and very ignorant. I saw a Chinaman one day going to market with five baby girls in a basket, and he said he hoped to get as high as forty cents apiece for them. Said the speaker: Not over one woman in a hundred can read, but they are all willing to learn, especially from teachers of their own sex. They are slowly rising from their degradation and are gaining new ideas of freedom so that in time they may everyone to be considered equals of their husbands. Even now a mother-in-law is recognized as powerful, and in some large families she rules as a monarch. "Have you got a mother-in-law?" is one of the first questions asked of every stranger in China.

Arctic Hardships.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The Herald's special says: "The story of the sufferings of Danenhower and his comrades, before and after leaving the Jeannette, is too long to relate here. When they first landed their legs were so swollen and frostbitten they were obliged almost to crawl on their hands and knees, till they could get fuel to light fires. Both Danenhower and Cole were noted among the party for their strength. The most distressing case is that of Cole, who has been watched narrowly day and night, ever since landing at the mouth of the Lena river. A Cossack has kept watch over him all the way from Irkutsk. Mental derangement first showed itself while in the boat after leaving the ship. At times he becomes violent and threatens Lieutenant Danenhower. At Mashtanuk he dashed at Danenhower with a knife and before he could be secured wounded the lieutenant slightly in the hand. The Chinese steward is apparently in robust health."

Opening of the Musical Festival.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The musical festival opened to-night with an audience of nearly eight thousand people. Thomas, his orchestra, chorus, and Frau Materna, were well received. The latter was called before the curtain five times.

Jewish Exodus.

LONDON, May 3.—Yesterday the exodus of Jews from all parts of Russia commenced. As the foreign corn trade was almost all in Jewish hands the utmost confusion prevails in that industry.

Mining Stocks.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Mining stocks were very active, especially Robinson and South Pacific, 81,500 shares of the former selling at $1,600 of the latter. Robinson declined from $3.50 to $2.94 and advanced to $3.35. Southern Pacific broke from 65 to 28, closing at 35. Stale Line sold at 31 and 32. Crown Mountain at $2.05 to $2.15, and Cherokee at 21 to 22. Sales at both exchanges were unusual.

Inter-Ocean Railway.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The Atlantic and Pacific Inter-Ocean Railway company was organized to-day with Nathaniel P. Banks as president. It is claimed by the company that time by their route from New York to San Francisco can be made in five days.

Guiteau Analyzed.

CHICAGO, May 3.—At a meeting of the Medico Legal society to-night a paper by Dr. A. O. Kellogg on analysis on the mental condition of Charles J. Guiteau, was read by Dr. W. A. Hammond. The writer claims the assassin was generally deprived but became when he killed the president.

GLADSTONE'S POLICY.

Release of Suspects Regarded as a Retreat of the Premier.

Hopes of an Immediate Improvement in Ireland's Condition.

Parnell's Liberation the Result of Direct Negotiations.

DUBLIN, May 3.—Parnell, Dillon and O'Kelly have been released from Kilmainham jail. After their release they drove upon the outskirts of the city to Harcourt street where they took the train for Avondale, the residence of Parnell, where they will remain two days and will arrive in London Friday.

NEW YORK, May 3.—There is little room to doubt that Parnell's liberation is the result of direct negotiations between him and the government, and that he got the best of the treaty. A statement was made in several newspapers, that some gentlemen visited Parnell in prison twice in one day. It now appears that Captain O'Shea was the person who made the visits, and did so as an ambassador of the government. The result is seen in the terms of peace and the agreement concluded with a complete change of policy. Lord Cowper hunted for a strong man of experience, and now Forster becomes what Sexton called him on one occasion in the lobby—"a spiked cannon." The release of all the suspects not charged with actual crime, the lapsing of the coercion act in September proves the change.

DUBLIN, May 3.—There was great excitement on the news being received of the resignation of Forster. Crowds gathered on the streets and cheered for Parnell and groaned for Forster. Bands paraded the city playing national airs, and the news of the land leaguers' release was quickly transmitted through the country. Soon fires were blazing on Wicklow hill, and there was spontaneous rejoicing everywhere. At Limerick many people danced with joy, shouting "Forster is gone. God save Ireland." Bands paraded at Waterford, and illuminations were general. Parnell, Dillon and O'Kelly were released at eleven o'clock last night, and further changes at Dublin Castle are expected. Thomas Henry Burke, under secretary, and Colonel Hallier, chief of constabulary, will probably resign.

Justin McCarthy presided at a special meeting of the Irish parliamentary party, when Bernard Malloy offered a motion thanking the Canadian parliaments for adopting the resolution in favor of the autonomy of Ireland. Sir Joseph McKenna then seconded the motion, and it was passed.

LONDON, May 3.—The Times says if Parnell will use his liberty to restore order, there may be an immediate improvement in the condition of Ireland. The Standard asks if the amnesty be real, on what grounds can Davitt be excluded from it? The Post says the government is in despair, and behaves like a desperate man playing a desperate game to retrieve fortune.—Gladstone says the release of Davitt is totally distinct from the release of the suspects, which is a question it might be right for the government to consider. Northcote likened the government to a pendulum swinging from one side back to the other. Chamberlain, president of the board of trade, or Sliaw LeFevre, commissioner of works and buildings, will probably succeed Forster. If the former does, Sir Charles Dilke, under-foreign secretary, will succeed to the presidency of the board of trade. The Times says the policy now to be tried in Ireland is one of concession and conciliation, pure and simple, as is proven by the taking of the Irish members in consultation on the government of Ireland and in a measure to improve the land act. Gladstone's statement that a measure might be proposed to deal with secret societies is looked upon as a kind of excuse for appearances. With reference to Forster's successor rumor rates it upon Shaw, who, however, fears he would not be re-elected from Cork if he accepted the post, and partly upon a divided secretaryship between Sir Charles Dilke and Shaw LeFevre. Forster, it is thought likely, will be provided with a peerage or some valuable appointment.

NEW YORK, May 3.—A Washington correspondent says: There is nothing talked about to-day in diplomatic circles beyond what is generally accredited as Gladstone's back down, representing both constitutional and individual government of Great Britain. The release of Parnell and Dillon is regarded at the state department and among the legation as pointing to home rule in Ireland, and they say our government takes no interest whatever in Great Britain's affairs except to express the hope that the British government will succeed in doing some wise things. They say it is no business of ours what England does and neither suggestion nor request upon any incident of this present affair will come from the United States.

LONDON, May 3.—In the commons, Gladstone, replying to Callan, member for Louth, said he had not yet received the resolution of the Canadian legislature in regard to Ireland, and therefore could not present it to the house. As to any action on it, matters referred to concerned the imperial legislature alone. As to the portion of the Canadian address relating to the matter within the discretion of the executive it had the government's close and constant attention before the suggestion contained in the address reached them in any shape from any quarter. Land League members of parliament are trying to persuade Parnell to be in the house Thursday, when Forster makes his explanation.

Opening of the Denver and New Orleans.

The formal opening of the Denver and New Orleans road took place yesterday. A large number of our citizens left here at 2 o'clock in coaches to meet the train at the Manitou junction. The following is a list of those who went:

Mayor D. W. Robbins, ex-Mayor Evans, Alderman L. D. Coombs, M. D., A. Brown, B. F. Crowell, H. W. Andrews, John A. Minnegar, and A. J. Hunter, City Treasurer J. J. Hooker, City Attorney John Campbell, City Marshal Beall, Judge J. H. B. McFerran, County Clerk E. J. Eaton, Clerk of District Court J. E. McIntyre, Coroner E. O. Perkins, County Physician E. C. Kimball, Dr. B. P. Anderson, Mr. A. Mook, Mr. Harry Wagner of the GAZETTE, Mr. H. A. Corman of the Republic.

The party reached Manitou junction at 3:25 to take the train at 3:41. But the train was late and did not reach Manitou junction until nearly 5 o'clock, and so did not reach Pueblo before 7 o'clock instead of 5:30 as expected. The train that came from Denver was drawn by engine number four and was composed of four coaches. The train was profusely decorated and presented a handsome appearance. On the train were about one hundred and fifty people, consisting of fifty members of the Denver board of trade, railroad officials, city officers of Denver, county officers of Arapahoe and members of the press. The train had a band of music aboard which played some excellent music. [We had arranged to give an account of the proceedings at Pueblo, but for some reason our special did not get through. ED. GAZETTE.]

College Notes.

Professor Sheldon's lecture last Tuesday evening was listened to by a large audience. The professor spoke in regard to the gate of Hadrian, the Areopagus or Mars' Hill, and other things of interest pertaining to ancient Athens. He also described some of the Greeks' methods of telling time. Several views of tuneful restoration of Athens were presented with the college lantern. The next lecture in the course will be on "Temples and Temple Architecture."

The disagreeable weather interfered with the last geological expedition. The class will make an excursion next Saturday, but probably to a different point from that picked out for last Saturday. The place has not yet been determined.

Bad weather also prevented the athletic sports set for last Friday afternoon, and also the regular meeting of the Occidental club. The athletic contests are announced for next Friday afternoon.

The Occidental club has now been without a quorum for three successive meetings. As soon as a quorum can be got together an effort will probably be made to reduce the number necessary for a quorum. As there will be but four more meetings anyway, and as no change can be made without a quorum at two meetings, not much can be gained in this way for the present year. Some of the members are desirous of having one more well-attended interesting meeting before the close of the school year. At the next meeting instead of a debate there will be rival oratory—whatever that is.

The attendance has decreased considerably this term. Kimball, Cotten and Curtis have left. McCreery is reported to have gone to the mountains.

George F. Owen will to-day begin work in the Cliff House, Manitou.

Miss Hollister and Miss Lizzie Neal are ill.

Professor Stone is afflicted with a sore throat.

Professor Loud and Mr. Fisher spent Monday night on Mount Garfield and reached town on their return in good season Tuesday morning. A part of the banner which was put up last September still remained. The gentlemen put up another.

The girls' boarding club (whose membership in spite of the name has for some time contained more gentlemen than ladies) is broken up.

Three students of the assaying department are now finishing their work.

The class in United States history has finished.

There will be oral examinations at the end of the term.

Rev. Mr. Wilcox, who it was thought might deliver an address at the commencement, will be in Colorado next week; but as he will not stay until the close of the term, will be unable to take part at commencement. The college building will be dedicated at that time and President Tenney will be inaugurated. Besides the graduates' orations and the essay on Cobden music will be arranged for.

Yesterday morning, at morning prayer, Professor Marden made announcement of the decision in regard to the Strettell prize essay on Richard Cobden, reading the letter received from the awarding committee.

The prize is awarded to Mr. F. L. Cooper, and Miss Lizzie S. Neal's essay receives honorary mention.

A recent number of the Journal of Commerce contains under the heading "The Garden City of Colorado," a letter from Mrs. Sarah Hayford Marden. She gives her impressions of Colorado Springs, speaking in somewhat enthusiastic terms of the climate and people. She admires the general social spirit here manifested, says the churches are well filled and the prayer-meetings warm and homelike, and closes with the following: "It has been asked if there is not an air of depression about a place that is so much of a sanitarium. I do not perceive it. Indeed there are so many delicate people growing stronger here that there is quite another side to this matter. And the few who fail and fade leave their blessing in the softening influences that greet the new comers and gives the ready hand of sympathy at every turn. There are those who love this sunny land as they love no other, and there are those who amid all the beautiful things nature keeps spread and those she is constantly unlocking, look lovingly across the long stretch of plains toward the far east."

THIRD SECTION

Of Raymond's Popular Excursions to Manitou.

Personnel of the Party and Brief Description of Their Trip.

The party left Boston on Thursday last, 27th of April, at 1:30 p. m. They proceeded to Albany from Boston, by way of the Boston and Albany railroad; went from Albany to Buffalo by the New York Central railroad; from Buffalo to Chicago by the Lake Shore railroad, and arrived at Chicago on Saturday. The party stopped at the Sherman House over Sunday, and left on Monday by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific for Kansas City. From Kansas City they came by the A. T. and S. F. to Pueblo, where they were met by a special train of Horton chair cars which conveyed them to Manitou. They speak in the highest terms of the management of the different roads over which they traveled, and were it not for a slight detention on the D. and R. G. railroad caused by the transport of the Third cavalry, they would have arrived at Manitou exactly on time; they had always been ahead or on time at every place. The party number in all one hundred and seven. There is considerable musical talent among the party and they have furnished the party with music on the journey. The following are prominent among the excursionists:

The party is in charge of Mr. Luther S. Holden, of Boston, who is now associated with Messrs. Raymond and Whitcomb. He is an old newspaper man, and was connected with the Boston Journal for twenty-seven years.

G. E. Cummings, Woodsville, N. H., is in charge of the baggage department. He is an old railroad man and is well qualified for the duties of his department.

Mrs. Mary E. Blake, of Boston, author of "Rambling Talks" in Boston Journal, is with the party. She is widely known as a writer and now has a book of poems in press.

Another prominent writer is Mrs. S. D. Power, of Boston, Mass. She is known under the cognomen of "Shirley Dare." She has been connected with the New York Mail, Boston Transcript, Boston Advertiser and other journals.

Hon. Levi Stockbridge, of Amherst, Mass., is one of the prominent personages among the party. He is ex-president of the Massachusetts agricultural college at Amherst.

Hon. William Upham is an ex-member of the governor's council of Massachusetts.

Mr. Franz Zerrahn is a son of Carl Zerrahn the well known musical conductor of the Boston Handel and Haydn society.

Mr. A. M. Barber, of Akron, Ohio, Mr. J. H. Hammond, of Northampton, Mass., Mr. Hiram Lake, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Mr. Moses Sargent, of Merrimac, Mass., are all prominent men in their cities.

Conductor E. A. Sayre, in charge of the excursion train, brought it into Manitou on time. By his courteous and accommodating manners he made friends of all his passengers who enjoyed their trip immensely.

LEADVILLE.

Less Dash and More Substance—Steady Prosperity.

LEADVILLE, May 1, 1882.—The Leadville of to-day is by no means the dashing, reckless, feverish Leadville of three years ago. It does not follow that she has gone into a decline or is becoming palsied. On the contrary, her health was never better nor her pulse stronger. Her preternatural growth in infancy has been followed by a strengthening of muscle and a hardening of bone and tissue. She thrived at first upon what was brought to her; she now lives independently, and prospers upon what she produces.

The experience of Leadville has been that of nearly all substantial mining towns. A promising finding and attracts attention; the discovery of a real bonanza creates a furor. There follows a blind rush for the mines; a city springs up as if by magic and people lose their heads. The capitalist forgets his discretion and becomes a spendthrift. The merchant dashes out recklessly and strives to make the whole city a bazar. Men forget everything but bonanzas and speculation. The rum seller, the gambler, the blackleg, and the courtesan ply their hellish vocations in the blaze of sunlight and the shadows of midnight. The church, the school and all the refinements of a higher life are neglected in the general scramble.

There comes a crash, some great bonanza collapses with appalling suddenness, or a wholesale swindle is brought to light. General distrust follows; outside capital takes the alarm and suddenly becomes conservative. The city is thrown upon her own resources. Men begin their senses. In the sudden reaction the weaker go under, but upon the basis of solid resources the more reasonable and rational methods give substance and health.

This is the condition of Leadville to-day. Her growth is less rapid than when the rich men from the east hastened to lay their treasures at her feet, but far more substantial and enduring. The change from frenzy to sanity has certainly been remarkable. Whatever may be the opinion elsewhere, it is unquestionably true that Leadville is to-day as orderly and well governed as the average of cities of the same class throughout the country. The schools of Leadville have made remarkable progress and now rank with the best. A great change has occurred in the observance of the Sabbath, and moral influences now affect in a noticeable degree the outward life of the people. Leadville is by no means a moral city, but she is not as bad as she has been painted, and not much worse, relatively, than many cities of better reputation.

While the resources of her own camp will for a long time give Leadville a substantial support, she cannot reasonably expect to rise to the importance of a great city unless she exerts herself to secure the patronage of surrounding camps by securing the best possible facilities for communication, by encouraging manufactures of mining machinery, and becoming a thoroughly competing depot of supplies. Her destiny is measurably in her own hands.

J. L. LOOMIS

Mexican Railroad Delay.

LAREDO, May 3.—The first thirty-five miles of grading out from New Laredo, Mexico, on the international road was completed today. It is understood further grading will be suspended till the Mexican government will accept the survey and location. It is believed the government is delaying the work purposely to retard the completion of the railroad, which is faster than the government is prepared or willing to pay the bonus of eleven thousand dollars, which it agreed to pay. The delay will cause great loss upon American contractors, who have large and costly outfits in Mexico.

Horrible Fatality.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 3.—This evening a young man named Allen Grady was run over and instantly killed by a switch engine in the M. and St. L. freight yard. A large number of persons gathered at the scene, and while two men John Cochran and John Gribbin, of Minneapolis were crossing the track of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba, on their way home, they were struck by a train and one was killed and the other fatally injured.

Certain papers object to our criticism of leading republicans. Is this caused by sympathy for Dorsey?

It is reported that Shuckers, the man who gave the Garfield-Rosecrans letter to the New York Sun, has other letters which he will publish in the North American.

Both Dorsey and Brady heartily endorse the Republican in its defense of the present administration. They will regard it as a success so long as they can keep out of jail.

The Denver and New Orleans was opened yesterday. Our reporter failed to send us a special about the arrival of the train at Pueblo. It is certain that Pueblo was jubilant and glad.

If Mr. Forster resigns the secretaryship for Ireland simply because he is made the scapegoat of Gladstone's administration, it does not increase our respect for the manliness of the premier. If he was mistaken in his policy he should say so.

It has been the custom of certain places in the city to allow games of poker to be played for the cigars. Some have allowed mere boys to indulge in this sport and thus give them a taste for gambling. It is proposed to indict this fellow for keeping a gambling place.

The New York Times gives this opinion of the present secretary of the republican national committee: "Ex-Senator Dorsey differs from most successful rascals of recent times in having a decided talent for making enemies even among his own associates, and this persistency in cheating his agents as well as the government has afforded several promising chances for securing them as state's evidence."

The Springfield Republican openly charges that the election of Keifer was the result of a combination by which certain committees should be appointed which would be favorable to jobs. The reports already made by the committees on postoffices and postroads and naval affairs are in part proof of this. This much is certain that the stalwarts are not favoring economy and are thinking more about keeping themselves in power than of administering the affairs of the nation wisely.

Mr. J. Q. Adams Ward, the sculptor, recently visited the Metropolitan museum to look at the Cypriote collection of statues which have been styled "fraudulent patchworks of unrelated parts." Mr. Ward did not agree with the criticism, and, after a careful examination, extended his hand to General Di Cesnola and said: "Shake, general; if you can knock together old statues in that way it is time for me to retire from the business."

Perry Belmont, who has become famous because he asked a famous man some questions, has this in his favor, that he has resisted the temptation to lead an insipid fashionable life and has been industrious in his profession of law. He graduated at Harvard in 1852. He has a distinguished ancestry. His maternal grandfather was an active sailor during the American revolution. Five uncles were officers in the navy during the war of 1812, among whom was Commodore Perry who won the great battle of Lake Erie and Commodore Perry who concluded the Japan treaty.

We don't often say anything complimentary to the Hon. T. M. Patterson, but must commend the common sense of the following passage from his speech at the laying of the corner stone at the industrial exhibition building:

All of the tariff wrangle, except as an abstract question of statecraft, will sit lightly upon our people, provided by our efforts we become what we are destined us, a great manufacturing and producing community. Our protection is solid—think congressional legislation cannot destroy. The 500 miles of plains to the east, the everlasting mountains stretching from the British possessions to the Gulf, on the west, the storehouse of metals and minerals, the forests of timber, the pasture lands alive with herds, the bins and elevators which may be filled with our own grain, all at our doors, the rules of transportation which must be paid before competition arrives to us, constitute nature's protection more effective for our prosperity than tariffs or other devices of men.

It illustrates the fact that the protection is now the best sure, if natural. This is the only protection that ever should exist and that pays. The artificial protection simply stimulates industries which only a tax on the entire people can ever make pay because some other country has a natural advantage over us in that industry, and it would be far better to buy of that country than to manufacture at a loss.

Horace Maynard whose death is announced has been active in national affairs for twenty-five years. He was born in Massachusetts in 1814 and graduated from Amherst college in 1835. He removed to Knoxville, Tennessee, and taught in the university until 1844. He then began the practice of law. He was first elected to the house in 1857 and served until 1863. He was elected again in 1868 but was not allowed to take his seat until July 1866. He then served continuously until 1875 when he was appointed minister to Turkey. In the latter part of Hayes' administration he was made postmaster-general in the place of Keyes. It was thought he had fair chances for an election to the senate this winter. He was not a great man, but his steady, uniform and uncompromising fidelity to his principles won for him the respect of all who knew him. His loyalty during the war made him conspicuous before the nation.

The Prince of Wales gave his brother Leopold a $25,000 piano as a wedding present.

Dr. Freiber, who attended Byron in his last illness, is dead. He never quitted Athens.

The statue of the Empress Maria Theresa soon to be erected in Vienna, will be twelve times the size of life.

Mr. Blaine's house in Washington will not be finished until July, and he will not occupy it until autumn.

The Cameron leaders are about to start a morning organ in Philadelphia, having failed to get control of the Press.

Wendell Phillips has taken up his residence in common street, Boston, near Tremont street, where he has rented a house.

Mozart's manuscript of the famous trio in E major sold for over $300 at a Berlin auction lately, and his portrait, painted from life, do. for about $100.

Rochester claims the oldest lawyer in the country. His name is Azgill Gibbs, and his age is about ninety-five. He was admitted to the bar in 1817, and engaged in active practice fifty-five years.

Mr. Blaine's oration upon the life and character of President Garfield has been engrossed upon a sheet of Bristol board by a resident of Philadelphia, who intends to present this result of long and patient labor to Mrs. Garfield.

The following distinguished Americans are over seventy years of age: Thurlow Weed, 81; Charles O'Conor, 78; David Dudley Field, 77; Charles Francis Adams, John G. Whittier and Jefferson Davis, each 74; Oliver Wendell Holmes and Cornelius K. Garrison, 73; Jeremiah S. Black, Robert Toombs and, Phineas T. Barnum, 72; Wendell Phillips, 71; Judah P. Benjamin, Alexander H. Stephens and Horatio Seymour, 70.

"We would laughed at young Rossetti." His fellow artists decried and derided him. But as one of the pre-Raphaelite school, of which Mr. Burne-Jones, Mr. Holman Hunt and Mr. Millais were the most distinguished members, he persistently attacked the too exclusive English art world. He failed; and from early life until the day of his death he refused even to exhibit in public, so the world knows little of one of its greatest painters. His pictures are marvels of color, and are full of high allegory.—London Letter.

"You are looking bad," remarked Snowberger to Colonel Percy Verger, "what's the matter?" "The doctor says my lungs are affected, and that I must not take more than three drinks a day." "I would try some other doctor," said he said the same thing." "Well, then if each one of them said you could take three drinks a day, that makes six drinks." "I never thought of that before. I'll see the rest of the doctors in Austin, and if they all say I can take three drinks a day, that will make about eight drinks a day, and that is as much as is good for an invalid."—Texas Siftings.

A young lady attending lake Erie seminary at Painesville, O., writing to her sister that, recently the two Garfield boys and Private Secretary Brown visited the school, says: "Harry Garfield is handsome and dignified, has black hair and eyes, and respectable sidehairs. James resembles his father, but is quite boyish looking, and Harry resembles his mother. James appeared quite embarrassed among so many girls, but Harry and Mr. Brown were perfectly at home, and kept up a lively conversation. They spent the afternoon, and had a pleasant reception in the chapel. Miss Rudolph, one of the teachers, is a niece of Mrs. Garfield."

THEO. JOHN W. DANENHOWER.

Third Officer of the Ill-Fated Jeannette.

The arrival of Lieutenant Danenhower with others of the crew of the Jeannette—those who were landed at the mouth of the Lena in boat No. 3,—at St. Peter-burg, renews the excitement as to the fate of Lieutenant DeLong and others of the ill-starred expedition. So long as the Arctic world remains unexplored there will be found daring men who, from love of adventure, or in the interest of science will gladly encounter the dangers and difficulties of Polar expeditions. To such intrepid spirits the world owes its progress. It is no argument to say that it is not apparent that science and civilization will be materially benefited by these expeditions, because we do not know what the discoveries will be. If a single item is added to our knowledge of geography, or any other of the exact sciences, the value is incalculable.

Lieutenant Danenhower was born in Chicago in 1848. He graduated from the Naval Academy in 1869, and served some years with the European squadron on board the Juniata. He is a brave and accomplished young officer, and if we ever have a navy, or rather if we ever have need to employ the proposed new war ships in active service, this representative young American will be sure to be heard from.

Mob Law Among Sparrows.

Owensboro, Ky., Messenger:

A citizen related to us yesterday an interesting incident concerning the English sparrows, which of late years have become so numerous in this city. A few days ago he noticed in one of the trees in his yard a number of the birds busily engaged in building a nest, evidently on the cooperative plan. Soon another sparrow of the same kind, but evidently not one of their clique, probably a miller or drone came along, and from an adjacent bough stood and watched the modus operandi of the nest building. It may be that he ventured a suggestion or made some slurring remark, for at once the whole number set upon him and whipped him so soundly that he thought it prudent to leave. The gentleman thought no more of it until yesterday, when his attention was called to a bird suspended in mid-air with a string around its neck from the same bough. The former incident was recalled; and now the question arises, is there mob law among birds, and was this one a victim? He may have hanged himself accidentally, but this is not probable.

The Punishment for Philanthropy.

London Globe.

The philanthropic practice of buying a slave in the Indies in order to set him free in Europe seems to be attended with some of the same risks as that which discourages the laudable humanitarian who rescued the "little vulgar boy." A French gentleman named Michel has just had painful experience of this truth in his contest with the slave Marmel whom he purchased in Brazil and afterwards manumitted in Paris. The ex-slave, who does not seem to have deserved the good fortune reserved for him, celebrated his emancipation by demanding of his benefactor the service of his benefactor and setting off to possess of a fat maintenance. Not content with this display of ingratitude, he also sued his master for arrears of wages and found means to get M. Michel in much expense in contesting the claim. The lawyer employed by the latter contended that the Brazilian might to be considered as a stranger, to find security for costs; but to this the adverse counsel replied by declaring that M. Michel was as much a stranger as his adversary. In effect the code enacts that "any person who at home or abroad has entered into any slave dealing transaction shall thereby be held to have forfeited his character and civic rights as a French citizen." Thus the unlucky philanthropist, who has undoubtedly brought himself within the scope of the law, finds that he has inflicted upon himself a formidable penalty. His motives may have been excellent, and his conduct commendable to the highest dictates of civilization and philanthropy. But the code has nothing to do with motives, and there is no ambiguity at all in the text.

The Little Brazeltes View of Blaine.

New York Tribune, April 20.

"You see that white-haired fellow at the end of the dock?" said a chatty newspaper man to a group of passengers on a river steamer's deck as the boat drew near a landing. "Well, they say he's pretty smart, and my friend Perry here, who is a good deal of an athlete, is going ashore to have some fun with him. If you want to see fun by-and-by wait right here till Perry gets hold of him."

"Look here," said Perry, as he confronted the white-headed fellow, "aren't you the man who used to be steamboat agent at this landing?"

"I suppose I am," said the white-haired fellow, in a languid way.

"Well, they tell me you used to steal freight."

"Oh, they do! Well, you tell them they lie!"

"Look here, sir!" said Perry, assuming the appearance of anger, "that won't do. I want you to understand I am authorized to investigate this matter, and I won't have any nonsense about it, either."

"You won't, eh? Well, I'm glad of that."

"No, sir, I won't. I propose to probe this matter to the bottom, and you must answer my questions categorically."

"Now, see here, young man," said the white-haired man, persuasively, "you're trying to have some fun with me—but don't you think you'd better stop where you are and go away? 'Tisn't very funny to accuse a fellow of stealing, and I'm not used to it."

"Funny or not," said Perry, "I think it's true, and that we've got you fairly caught at it, too."

The white-haired man shifted his quid, his gray eyes twinkled, and—he took his hands out of his pockets. Something dropped into the water.

Fifty-five seconds later Perry, spouting river water from a damaged countenance, was devoting the muscle which had been advertised for an entirely different exhibition to an earnest effort to swim ashore.

Then the white-haired man, resuming an attitude of pensive ease, winked lazily at the group on deck and said, with what seemed to them to contain a faint flavor of sarcasm: "Do you suppose there's anybody else on board that wants to have some fun with me?"

And the chatty newspaper man sat down and wrote a thrilling account of it for his paper, remarking at the close that the white-haired man shocked and disgusted the passengers by the inexcusable levity with which he treated the very serious charges brought against him, and that he had aroused such a profound feeling of hostility in the neighborhood that the steamboat company would never offer him any employment hereafter.

INSURANCE.

The Scottish Union and National Ins. Co.

This Company is among the largest and strongest companies in the world Its organization dates back to 1824 Of the assets the companies doing business on this coast, with the exception of the New York Insurance department in point of paid up capital it ranks No. 6, while in point of assets it ranks 4 Adding its subscribed capital, subject to call, amounting to $2,000,000 which, under the stringent laws of Great Britain, is as good as paid up, it is fully illustrated that the surplus of the Glasgow Bank, is available to the last dollar for the liabilities of that bank, the best for all the companies doing business in America, while it is in actual business $27,000,000 and is very closely issued policies on its fire and in its contract binds its actual fire assets to every dollar of its authorized and subscribed capital of $2,000,000 for the payment of fire losses

ABE ROBERTS,
Proprietor of Mountaineer.

Remember Janauschek to-night.

Mr. Charles S. Robinson is in town.

Mrs. Mary G. Ades has returned to town.

The new hotel begins to assume large proportions.

Police matters were reported very quiet yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Martin have gone to Silver Cliff.

There are still good seats left for Janauschek to-night.

Mr. Jones, of Ferris & Jones, has arrived from the east with his bride.

Ex-Superintendent James P. Easterly has been added to the Republic force.

It is reported that there is much business on hand among the court house people.

The latest news is that Sheriff Bowman of Gunnison county is not killed after all.

Col. Tom Wardles has finished his tar walk. He has great faith that it will be a success.

Dr. T. A. Deplow is spending a few days with his family on his ranch near Summit Park.

Mr. John M. Wardles has charge of the Denver and New Orleans telegraph office in this city.

Rev. James B. Gregg, the new pastor of the Congregational church, is expected to arrive this week.

Mr. Stanley Wood, now advertising agent of the Denver and Rio Grande road, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. H. P. Scott, of the GAZETTE, accompanied the Philadelphia excursion to Toltec Gorge yesterday.

Last evening was so mild and pleasant that people seemed to show a summer-like tendency to stroll and loiter in the streets.

Mr. J. G. Wetmore showed us a splendid specimen of turning yesterday. He has one of the most skillful throws in the state.

Mr. O. Parker sold his bakery yesterday to J. Q. Adams. Mr. Parker goes over to the Gunnison to look for a new place for business.

"Mother and Son," one of the best of Janauschek's selections, will be presented at the opera house to-night, and should draw a large house.

Mr. John W. Campbell and Miss Sophia Kimball were married at three o'clock this afternoon in the Catholic church by the Rev. Father Brizie.

Coming from Pueblo the excursionists met a train conveying the Third cavalry to Deming, from which point the regiment will proceed against the hostile Indians in Arizona.

Miss Nannie Dawson, who read at the Congregational church last Monday evening, has gone to the Gunnison country for a visit. On her return here she expects to give another reading.

Reporters for the press are considered somewhat privileged characters, but the amateur reporter who went to Manitou yesterday got left by the train, and was obliged to walk home in just about the way the same thing would have happened to any one else.

There will be a meeting of the alumni of Cornell University, and Cornellians in general at the Windsor hotel, Denver, on the evening of Friday, May 26th, for the purpose of effecting a permanent organization of a "Rocky Mountain Cornell association." At the evening banquet a short programme with the following dramatis personæ will be carried out:

Orator—W. M. Chandler.
Essayist—F. B. Hine.
Poet—Joseph Ness.
Prophet—J. C. Kennedy.
Toast-master—Whitney Newton.
Leader of Cornell Melodies—C. F. Wilson.

All Cornell alumni who chance to see this notice, and who have not already put themselves in communication with the committee, are requested to do so at once, so that the necessary banquet arrangements may be made. The committee having the matter in charge consists of F. L. Smith and F. E. Pollard, of Black Hills, and M. J. Spaulding, of Bald Mountain.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

20 Temperance per line for first insertion—five cents per line for each subsequent insertion. Advertisements to go in every other issue, or on certain days of the week only, ten cents per line for each insertion.

CAVE OF THE WINDS!

Now Open for the Season of 1882.

Is located in William's Canon, only mile north from the Mineral Springs in Manitou.

There is no more pleasing or grand sight in Colorado and you miss a wonderful scene if you fail to see it.

There are large and elegant and cool waiting rooms with the most delicious and beautiful flowers. The sight of the rooms and grotto of the flower of Alabaster is a sight infinitely more than the expense and trouble of visiting the cave.

There are many rooms for you to visit, among which are Cascade, Canopy, Cathedral and Music Halls, Alabaster Grotto, and the famous Bridal Chamber.

The air is pure and there is no water to injure or soil clothing. Wraps and heavy furniture and attentive guides. Come and see us.
